

Further improvements at SPS

SPS has taken further steps to build quality relationships with customers by creating regional sales teams to serve its growing customer base.

This development serves to improve customer communication whilst allowing the company to respond to enquiries and orders promptly and efficiently. Each area will also have a dedicated account manager who will visit clients to offer sales and marketing support.

SPS customers will benefit from a regular support team at the end of the phone or available by email, making the order process much simpler.

To place an order with SPS, simply email your regional team at SPS and they'll get straight to work.
